Dedication

We,
the Senior class of 1951, hereby dedicate our annual,
the Eagle, to our school building,
which has housed trials and tribulations, as well as fun and happiness. Long may it stand!

Through our minds many years
from now will pass the memories good and bad, that are associated with this school and which we are now reluctant to leave as we venture farther down the road of life.

Superintendent's Message

Graduation for the class of 1951 is drawing near, and I want to express my congratulations to each member. It has taken some determination to remain in school twelve years, but who should do less in these times?

It is my hope that many of you will continue formal education in other schools and colleges. Education is very essential in democracy and especially in these trying times.

It is my sincere wish that all young people, and especially the ones I know, shall not fail in citizenship and spiritual growth.

SENIOR POEM

Some time ago-twelve years, in fact-
In nineteen thirty-nine,
The class of nineteen fifty-one
Began to rise and shine.
I'll introduce each one of them
And tell a fact or two
About their main ambitions or
The things they like to do.
First of all comes Donna Bell.
Believe me, she's not dumb!
I wonder what has made her smart.
Perhaps her chewing gum?
Dan Jackson is a peppy kid.
His red hair is in curls.
And he is liked by everyone--
Especially the girls.
Irene Peck and Jean, now,
They make a ducky pair!
Jean's a very tall girl, but
Irene stands 'way down-----there!
Leila Freeman, then, comes next.
She stands just five feet, four.
A very demure girl is she
Yet full of fun galore.
Marilyn's so quiet that
We hardly know she's here.
And she's so cute she got elected
Annual queen this year.
Next, Dickie Fluke. Oh, what a guy!
His car won him his fame.
And though he's always late for school,
The car is not to blame.
And now we come to Lois Laing.
She's sweet, she's swell, she's bright.
We also have Dolores Wimp
Who's fun from morn till night.
Melvin is our annual king;
A swell and dandy guy.
He's cute and sweet and hard to beat.
He's also rather shy.
Lynn Healey and David Brabb
Are really on the beam.
They're teacher's pests instead of pets,
But captains of our team.
Pete and George are mighty guys.
(This is what I meant:)
Pete is annual editor,
And George---our president.
Edward Peters and Bob Wimp
Are last but far from least.
We couldn't do without them, or
We don't want to, at least.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF
THE CLASS OF 1951

To Whom It May Concern:

Whereas we, the members of the omnipotent class of the year of our Lord, one-thousand nine-hundred fifty-one, of the Eads Public School, being of sound mind and body, and having gained that preeminence customary to lordly Seniors, and feeling that the time is at hand for us to make this, our Last Will and Testament, do hereby ordain and publish the same. With all due meditation and consideration of the merits of all concerned, we bequeath and dispose of all our worldly goods to the following:

IRENE PECK wills her excess weight to Thersa Rutledge.
LOIS LAING leaves her brains to Jean Chronister.
DONNA BELL bequeaths her ability to be nose-y to Dorothy Wimp.
MELVIN RICHARDSON leaves his ability to chew gum to Joyce Nelson.
JEAN HAINER wills her ability to wander the halls to Vivian Deinlein.
DICK FLUKE wills his ability to be tardy to Carma Lita Lorenz.
DAVID BRABB leaves his ability to make noise to Rosemary Schmitt.
DOLORES WIMP bequeaths her smile to Betty Patton.
GEORGE SCHLEINING wills his ability to get along with teachers to Esther Amyx.
DAN JACKSON leaves his ability to ride the scooter to Gordon Mast.
LYNN HEALEY wills his height to Maynard Amerine.
DICK FLUKE wills his ability to kill time to Darlene Bickel.
PETE HOEPNER wills his big feet to Carolyn Jackson.
BOB WIMP wills his ability to make wise cracks to Mildred Hieronymus.
LEILA FREEMAN wills her ability to stick her foot in her mouth to Ila Belle Mills.
MARILYN HEALEY bequeaths her slowness to Wanda Dunlap.
DAN JACKSON wills his red curly locks to Junior Criswell.
EDWARD PETERS leaves his ability to be quiet to Lois Jean Henney.
IRENE PECK leaves her ability to be heard all over the building to Dorothy Carthel.
LOIS LAING wills her ability to fix typewriter tables to Florence Weiser.

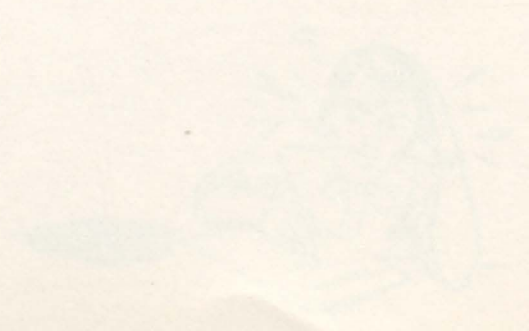

In witness whereof, we have set our hand and seal.

CLASS PROPHECY

Jean Hainer has devoted her time to raising her small family of twelve boys and twelve girls. She decided they were cheaper by the dozen. One day in November of 1999, her little girl took sick. She rushed her to a doctor. On the window was "Dr. 'Fixum' Healey". They went in and saw a tall, gangly, curly, gray haired man, and who was it but our own Lynn Healey who used to live on a ranch near Eads, Colorado. He said that he owned a 12800 acre ranch in Wyoming. He was also a veterinarian.

This was the wrong doctor but she had gotten to see an old classmate. Well, Jean proceeded on to the hospital. A nurse met them and asked them what they wanted, and this nurse turned out to be Marilyn Healey. She said she was the head nurse at this hospital. Jean was really glad she had succeeded so well in her work.

While they were in town, she decided to sign up her four eldest for piano lessons. They walked up the steps of a large, beautiful, building and who was sitting at the piano but Lois Laing. She had been teaching for forty years now.

As they were driving home, they passed a resort that gave swimming lessons. The boys persuaded her to go back and let them start lessons. They drove up to a pretty abode. A nice-looking woman met them and who was this but Leila Freeman. She lived right on a lake and gave swimming instructions herself. Miss Freeman (Mrs?) also told them that she wrote poetry in her spare time and sold them to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. They were glad to know that she was doing so well.

Miss Freeman took two of the boys for their first lesson and they were sitting in the lounge talking when in walked two handsome men who were just graying a little at the temples. These men looked familiar, and sure enough, she knew them. They were Melvin Richardson and Bob Wimp. Mel told her that he was playing baseball for the Dooklyn Brodgers. Bob told her that he was a five-star General in the Air-Corps.

While these men were sitting there with her, recalling the good old days at E. H. S., a couple of distinguished looking men came into the lounge. They also looked familiar to her. Sure enough, she knew them; they were George Schleining and Peter Hoepner. While they were talking they told them that they had purchased the Holcomb's Grocery and now it was known as the "S-H Indigestion Store." These two men were also among her graduating class. George was the president of the class.

When they were about to leave, another graying chap came in. He looked very familiar to all of them. He turned out to be Edward Peters. Edward told them he was playing the tuba in Dimmy Jorsey's band in Yew Nork.

They all left the Freeman home and journeyed on. Jean decided to get some meat before going home. There was a locker plant enroute so she stopped and a very familiar face was behind the counter. This face belonged to Dan Jackson. He had built himself up a mighty fine business.

While she was waiting, a dignified lady came hurrying in. This lady turned out to be Irene Peck who was successfully married to a Wimp. She was her usual old self, in a hurry, so Jean didn't get to ask her which one of the Wimps it was.

Jean went on down the road. The creamery was out a little further and she wanted to leave her cream there this time. She was sort of in a hurry and was rather surprised when Donna Bell met her. Jean was in a hurry and she was busy so she had to leave, but she promised she would be seeing her again.

She and her family started on their way toward home; then "BOOM!", and one corner of her car dropped lower than usual. Oh-oh, a flat tire! But--Ah! A garage only two blocks away. "1931 Chevrolet Fliver Service", the sign read; a funny name but she thought they might fix her flat tire, an 1807 model. Her feet dragged her into the shop and a tall, graying man (familiar, too) met her and asked her what he could do for her.

After she explained, he agreed to tow her to his shop and repair her tire. Her kids are bubble-gum chewers so she let them get some gum. Well, of all the trouble they had! One girl got a tooth pulled, another had her mouth fastened shut. One boy got his tongue fastened to the roof of his mouth and goodness knows what all! She didn't like this so she decided to go see a gum manufacturer and demand they take all the stickiness out of it.

On the gum-machine it read, "Brabbs Tripple Bubble Gum". It also gave the address so when this man fixed her tire she was going to see him.

This familiar garage owner turned out to be Dick Fluke. Mr. Fluke had owned a 1931, two-toned, green car which was called "Fliver" when he was going to E. H. S. "Fliver" got him to school every day, even if it was a little late.

Well, upon reaching the Brabb factory, a very distinguished lady asked her mission. This lady kept staring at her and it made her wonder if her slip was showing or something. Finally she asked Jean her name. Jean told her and (yes, you're right!) she was Dolores Wimp. She had made good her desire to become a private secretary.

Dolores ushered her into the private office of Mr. Brabb. The gum-chewing man standing before her looked mighty familiar. He introduced himself as David Brabb.

After David had promised to do what he could about the stickiness of the gum, her tired, scrapping, kids and she departed at last to their Reformatory Ranch where, with stringing hair and dirty faces she put her little troupe to bed in their cells.

CLASS HISTORY

The first day of school in 1939, as Miss Jessie Morris, the first grade teacher, arose from her desk to greet her new pupils, she saw ten bright and shining faces. The owners of these faces were Junior Criswell, Dickie Crow, Donald Goodro, Danny Jackson, Gordon Mast, June Buy, Donna Jackson, Lois Laing, Wanda Smith, and Helen Lucille Williams, who were starting out on their long and eventful journey through school. We lost Donald Goodro after the first semester.

The second year of school, we gained Lealon Brumley, making a class of ten again.

At the end of the second year, we lost Lealon Brumley, Junior Criswell, Dickie Crow, Gordon Mast, June Guy, and Donna Jackson, and gained four at the beginning of the third year. They were Jimmie Jacobs, Melvina Brillhart, Elaine Warren, and Juanita Kerfoot.

Our fourth grade class was made up of nine members after losing Jimmie Jacobs, Melvina Brillhart, and Lucille Williams and gaining Leo Mays, Edward Peters, Laura Anderson, and Rosie Mays.

We lost Elaine Warren in our fifth year and gained Dickie Fluke, and Clara Belle Hill making a class of fourteen.

We gained Alice Weisdorfer, and Mamie Zordel when we were sixth graders, and we lost Laura Anderson and Donna Jackson.

At the beginning of the seventh year we missed five familiar faces, Mamie Zordel, Donald Haynes, Wanda Smith, Rosie Mays, and Leo Mays.

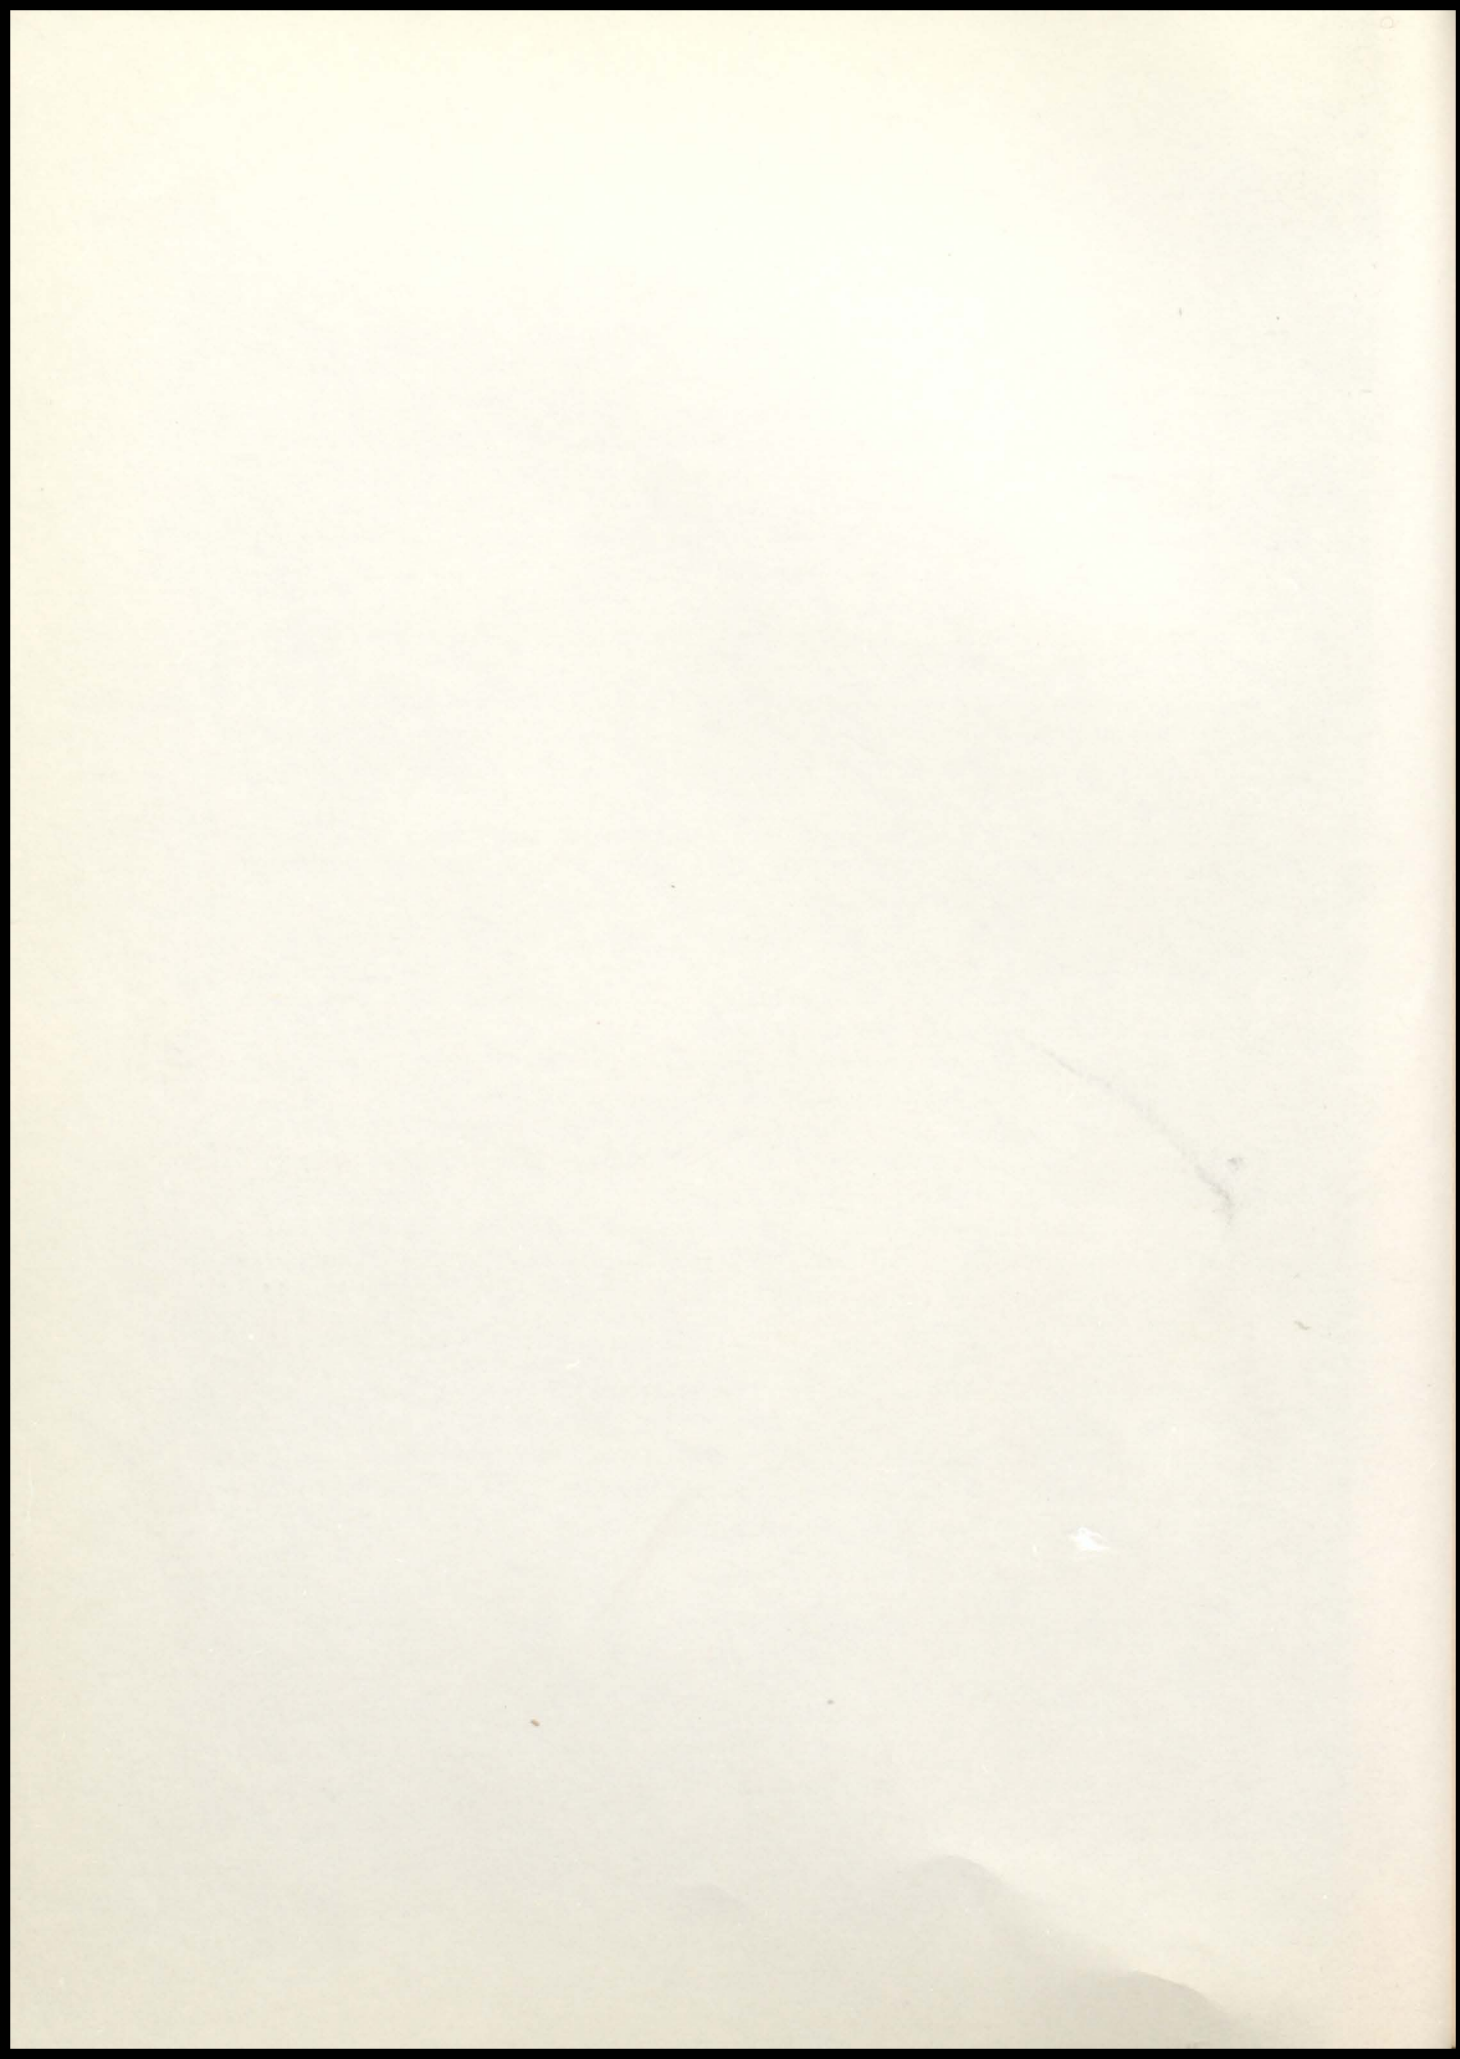

Then Pete Hoepner, Donnie Stroup, Irene Peck, Donna Bell, Leila Freeman, Helen Van Gundy, and Wanda Smith entered our midst, and we lost Alice Weisdorfer, Juanita Kerfoot, Clara Hill, and Helen Van Gundy.

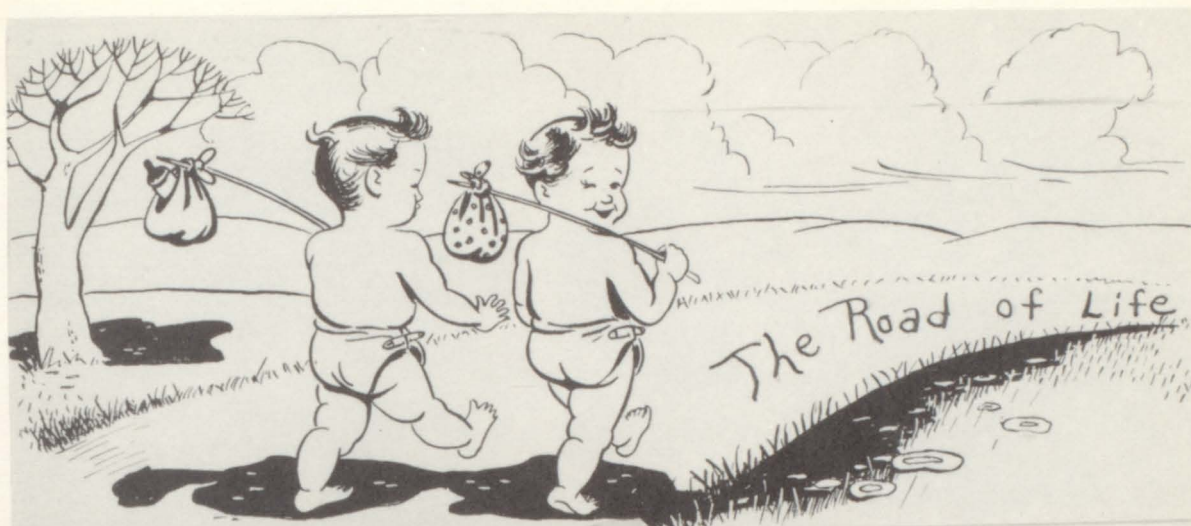

As we entered high school we had seven new faces in our class who were David Brabb, Lynn Healey, Don Williams Bob Wimp, Dolores Wimp, Glenna Perkins, and Wynoka Bishop, making a class of eighteen students. We lost Don Williams, Donnie Stroup, and Wynoka Bishop.

As sophomores, we gained Howard Conklin, Dan Mauck, Betty Drescher, and Earl Mitchel; and lost Howard Conklin, Dan Mauch, and Earl Mitchel.

We had two new students with us the next year, Shirley Williams, and Jean Hainer; and we lost Wanda Smith, Shirley Williams and Glenna Perkins.

We graduated with a class of sixteen after gaining three, Marilyn Healey, Donna Francis and Melvin Richardson, and losing two, Donna Francis and Betty Drescher.
