HEADLINES...

The 1983-84 school year at Plainview was filled with many headlines. These important events helped make the year a very special one for all. Here is a glance at some of the memories of the past year.

Staff ..... 3

New Superintendent Dr. David C. Pimentel was one of the many new faces at the school. He and his family moved here from Aurora. Other new staff members included Kim Carter-Second and Third Grade; Jo Harris-Instructional Aid and Coach; and Donald Butler and Skeeter Scott-Bus Drivers. These fresh new faces grouped with all the familiar ones for a very interesting and exciting combination. The staff was treated to staff meetings regularly, and many of them attended educational workshops and classes outside of school. Of course, each new brings new problems, but fortunately the same old smiles and friendliness were back. As usual, each member of the staff performed their duties well. Their important contributions insured a fruitful and worthwhile year for all involved.

Seniors ..... 6

1983-84 was probably most important to the seniors. This was their big year — and they assuredly made the most of it. They kept busy with bale hauls, suppers, cake walks, and raffles — all in order to raise funds for the big Senior Sneak to California. The year rolled by quickly; prom, graduation, and the sneak eventually came and passed. Now the seniors were on their own. Whatever aspect of life they are involved with, though, they are sure to use many of the valuable facts and ideas they acquired while at Plainview.

Classes ..... 9 Organizations..18

Although it was a very big year for the seniors, the other classes refused to tread in their shadow. Each of them expressed their own individuality as they raced through the year. The juniors were perhaps busiest of all. Under the careful guidance of sponsors Larry and Judy Tuttle the eager group of seven ran a profitable concession stand, sold numerous magazine subscriptions, and created an eloquent setting for the 1984 Junior-Senior Prom. The year had its lighter moments, too. The antics during the play and the water-fights while cleaning up the concession stand helped strengthen the bonds which have united this class over the years.

Then, of course, there were the sophomores. They spent many hours during the year selling candy to the hungry students. Community suppers and fruit cake sales added to the class funds. During class time, the sophomores took Mr. Palmer for "thrilling" rides in Driver's Education, they struggled through the difficult problems in Algebra II, and they became quite intimate with the rabbits they dissected in biology. Amazingly enough, all of the freshmen survived their initiation in the fall, and went on to become important members of the student body. During the year, they sold jackets and sponsored a soup supper. Mrs. Palmer's typing drills, English term papers, and geography worksheets occupied much of their time.

Each of the junior high classes kept busy with ball games, schoolwork, and fundraisers. In between reading and history homework, there were trash hauls, bake sales, and banquets to serve. As usual, though, junior high was an exciting time for those who took advantage of it.

Even though you did not always hear much about activities on the grade school end, they were surely not sitting idle! The teachers mixed their curriculum with a host of fun and important activities — such as holiday parties, library time, and art. The younger classes learned basics while the older ones worked hard on refining their skills.

Many active organizations existed in the school. The Student Council played an active roll in school affairs. They helped sponsor dances, set policy, and run the pop machine. The Publications Class put together six newspapers and an annual — which was almost a monumental task for the tiny bunch of eight. They sent articles to the local papers and assembled a slide set for the school before the school referendum. The Forensics Class, too, was quite small. However, that did not stop Coach Silliman from entering them in the area meets. The members also spoke to the various civic organizations in the community.

The Scholastic Bowl Team enjoyed another successful year. The team captured two first place finishes, two second place finishes, and a respectable 13th at the State Scholastic Meet in Durango. The local science fair featured many quality entries. After the regional competition, Plainview had qualified a record nine for the state fair. The bands also had a fine year. After winning awards in marching competition, the bands came indoors to prepare for the Christmas Concert. Following the holiday break, four high school and seven junior high school members participated in the Arkansas Valley Honor Band. Both of the bands fared well at the local band contests. The year climaxed with an acclaimed Spring Concert.

As usual, The high school pep club did a great job during the year. Not only were Miss Fees and her girls at the games and pep rallies to root the team on, but they were also busy with cake raffles and trash hauls. The proceeds from their projects went towards putting on a wonderful athletic banquet, and for sending the cheerleaders to camp. The junior high pep club — though less active — was no less enthusiastic. They cheered and worked hard all year long. The junior high cheerleaders even had the opportunity to perform with the high school cheerleaders on occasion.

Fall Events....26

The high school girls' volleyball team had a very rewarding year. Their 12-5 season mark and 4-1 league record distinguished them as one of the premier teams in the area. Although they lost to Eads in the state qualifying tournament, Coach Mecklenburg's girls had nothing to be ashamed of. The high school boys' football team finished with a disappointing 2-4 record. However, injuries and a lack of experience contributed to the unfortunate finish. The team worked hard all year, and look to be very strong next season.

Homecoming 1983 was a very exciting one. A week filled with Freshman Initiation, Powder-puff Football, a bonfire, and other spirit activities helped build hype for the events at the end of the week. Following a performance by the band, and the first half of the football game, John Pimentel and Sharon Splitter were crowned as homecoming royalty. Following the game victory, there was the dance, which featured a live band.

The football season for the junior high boys went very well. Coach Palmer's crew went undefeated in their games and scrimmages. On the other hand, the junior high girls' volleyball team experienced a rather difficult season. The girls kept trying, but injuries and the small number of participants limited the quality of play.

The high school boys' basketball team performed beyond most people's expectations. Their 7-2 league mark (11-6 overall) made them the High Plains League Champions. The relatively young team pulled out on top of many thrilling games during the season. Even though they faltered in the district tournament, four of the starters will return as the Hawk's make a serious bid for that elusive state tournament berth. The high school girls' basketball squad shot out of the starting blocks to post a 7-1 mark midway through the season. However, troubles began, and the team ended with only a 9-8 record for first year coach Jo Harris. Even though the girls had hoped for a stronger finish, there was vast improvement shown over the 2-16 mark in the preceeding year.

Winter Events ..34

The junior high boys' basketball team took top honors at the league tourney in Eads. That was merely the icing on the cake during a season which saw the team lose only two games. Obviously, their work paid off. The junior high girls' team came up against many tough teams during the year. Unfortunately, they came up on the short end of many very close games. Nevertheless, the girls did bring home the consolation trophy from the league tournament.

Along with the basketball season came the senior play: play: Nowhere Fast. Many came to view this exciting mystery/comedy and then bid upon the seniors at the slave sale. Christmas was also an exciting time at Plainview. The student body was treated to a few movies as a gift from the staff. Following that, everyone went to the library for the gift exchange and to sing a few carols. It was a very nice day (especially since it was the last before the long holiday break).

No sooner had basketball season ended than track and field began. Nearly everyone from kindergarten to twelfth grade participated under Coach Palmer. The elementary group captured numerous honors at the annual track meet in Eads. The junior high boys continued to display their athletic ability as they racked up point on point during the year. The boys won the league title, and were in competition for top honors in their other meets as well. The junior high girls also displayed much talent in various track and field events during the season. Both high school teams were very competitive at the meets they attended. Each scored well at the league meet and qualified many for district, but Tony Steele was the Hawk's only representative at the state level.

The baseball team ended yet another season with a winless record, but the record failed to tell the whole story. There was noted improvement in the ball club under Coach Pimentel. Many of the games were very close — including one in which the Hawks lost in the 12th inning. The spring also meant the Junior-Senior Prom. This year's prom, "Tonight, I Celebrate My Love," was enjoyed by all those attending. Jay McFarlane and Becky Hallock were named king and queen during the evening. Besides decorating for prom, the juniors also presented a play in the spring months titled Mountain Gal. The play was a hillbilly comedy which kept the audience smiling and laughing all night.

Graduation.....54

As the year began to wind down, it became time for many of the traditional year-end events. The Plainview Athletic Banquet featured a film, and a fine meal in addition to the numerous awards which were distributed to the school's athletes. Awards night honored the academic achievements of the students. Awards for each class and many special awards were handed out during the program. The highlights of the evening were the naming of Jay McFarlane and Becky Hallock as Mr. and Miss PHS and Mr. Steve Mecklenburg as Teacher of the Year. Craig Scott and Jay McFarlane also received awards for scholastic average and citizenship.

The final major event of the year was graduation. The kindergarten class graduated six youngsters into the first grade. The eighth grade class had 10 students receive diplomas. This group had many regrets about leaving the safety of junior high, but they will all accept the challenge of high school in the fall. The seniors' big day was May 18, thus ending their 13 years of education. Many of the class had spent most of their life at Plainview. The speeches given at the commencement exercises by Valedictorian Becky Hallock and Salutatorian Sharon Splitter reflected upon some of the memories the class had shared. It was both a time for glancing back and looking forward to the future. Although that future is uncertain for them, it is certain that they will use the knowledge Plainview has given them to insure themselves a successful tomorrow.

I am sure you will agree that the 1983-84 school year was one which will be remembered for years to come.

The School Board has made many decisions to help our school run better. On the maintenance side the board has bought a new scoreboard, a new suburban, bus, and tractor. On the education side, the board has developed a curriculum in Industrial Arts. A medical clinic has been set up at Plainview School for the public. The school board has also increased time for a school counselor who is Janet Palmer.

Experience is an excellent way to describe the teachers of Plainview. Combined, Plainview teachers have taught a total of 143 years at Plainview. Not only do they teach their regular classes-business, science, band, and history-but the teachers also take the responsibility of sponsoring teams. The teachers are willing to give advice anytime a student needs it, and will give up their time to work with a students that needs extra help. To our teachers we say, "Thank you for all the good, hard work you have put in at Plainview."

Bus drivers, cooks, maintenance men and janitors -- all people we often forget. However, it is they who basically keep the school functioning. If it were not for the bus drivers, the students would not get to school. Without the cooks, there would be no noon meal (and we all know how hungry we are by the time lunch rolls around). Without the janitor and maintenance man, the school would not be kept up properly. When you walk down the hall, in the lunch room, across the lawn, or step on the bus, remember these people who have worked so hard to make all of the "little things" at Plainview just right.

The Plainview Scholastic Team participated in many local meets, the state meet, and two competitions held on the computer. In many cases, both high school teams were allowed to participate. Results for the first team included first place finishes at Lamar and Plainview; second place honors at Tribune and Eads; and a respectable finish at the state level. Only twelve Class A schools scored higher than Plainview did. The teams also competed in La Junta and Dodge City, Kansas. Sponsors Fees and Silliman did a great job in preparing the team during the year.

The speech class consisted of only a couple members, but they did very well under Mrs. Silliman. Kim Lening placed in most of the meets she entered, and the class also spoke to various civic groups.

We can, we will, YES!

A 4-1 record earned the title Hi-Plains League Champs for the Plainview Volleyball squad and a common goal — to go that extra mile — made the 1983 season one to be remembered. Although they shared five disappointing losses, they celebrated twelve exuberant wins and teamwork was the Hawks' key. Explosive is how the Hawks began their 1983 season and they carried on that explosiveness until the very end. Their biggest league victory of the season was against Eads, 15-4, 15-6. Ironically, it was Eads who cut the Hawks' volleyball season short in the district playoffs and crushed their dreams of gaining a state berth. Though this dream was not fulfilled, the Hawks will be back stronger than ever in '84.

Hawks End

The Plainview Hawks won their final two games to finish the season 2-4 after the Hawks started the season by losing to Liberty, Kit Carson and Idalia. Victory finally came to the Hawks after a devastating loss to High Plains. The first Hawk victory was against a new team from Haigler, Nebraska. Homecoming was the final game of the season as the Hawks put down Bethune to make the evening successful for a second year straight.

The crowning of Sharon Splitter by King John Pimentel as the 1983 Homecoming Queen highlighted the week long Homecoming festivities on Oct. 21, 1983. A victory by the Plainview Hawks over Bethune, 46 - 30 made the Homecoming activities complete. The week was filled with the freshmen initiation and various spirit days. This year each class competed for most spirited class award. In the grade school the second and third graders were winners, the sixth grade took the spirit award for the junior high, and the freshmen class won the high school honors. There was also a spirit door award which went to the second and third graders in the grade school division. The sixth grade and freshmen classes also won again in their divisions. A powder puff football game and bonfire took place on Thursday night. The White Bay Packers beat the Blueskins 28-12.

The junior high boys finished their 1983 football season with four wins and one loss, winning against Holly, Kit Carson, Weskan, and McClave and losing against Granada. The leading passer for the junior high was an eighth grader, Paul Splitter. The leading rusher was Tom Scott who is a seventh grader. The most improved on the team was Randy Barnes, who is also a seventh grader. The team greatly missed Tim Harris who was injured in the first game of the season. The elementary, junior high, and high school presented a Christmas Concert, December 20, 1983. The kindergarten through twelfth grade sang "Silent Night." The grade school sang and played several Christmas songs. Then the junior high and the high school band followed with more lovely Christmas songs. This year the Plainview Hawk Boys' Basketball Team coached by Terry Harris had an excellent season. The Hawks ended the season with eleven wins and five losses. There were fifteen boys out for basketball which made for one of the larger teams Plainview has had over the past several years. The starting players for the Hawks were: Scott Wilson-Senior, Craig Scott-Junior, Kindal Barnes-Junior, Brian Beaman-Sophomore, and Mark Budde-Freshman. This year the Hawks fans had some really close games to see because five of the games were won by one point. This made for some very exciting action down to the last second of the game. Two players were also chosen to be on the All-State Basketball Team, Brian Beaman and Mark Budde.

The Plainview Junior High Boy's Basketball Team topped off a fantastic season by taking the championship trophy at the Eads tournament. A very big win over Eads in the tourney finals upped their season record to an outstanding 12 - 2 mark. One of those losses came against a tough Granada team. The other came to a powerful Stratton team in the finals of the Cheyenne Wells tourney --- giving the Hawks a second place finish. The team, built with only one returning starter, played like a seasoned ball club all year. The successful season wasn't new to Coach Palmer, who has enjoyed many successful basketball seasons in his career.

In their final game of the season the junior high girls defeated Karval to win consolation in the league tournament held at Eads on February 2, 1984. The girls started the league tournament in a tough game against Hugo by losing 17-4. The loss sent the girls into consolation against Karval. In this game the girls were able to pull out a 30-11 victory by making use of well-rounded scoring.

This victory gave the girls a 2-10 record for the season. Coach Palmer stated that the record does not tell or show the intensity and scores of the ball team. Coach Palmer added that there were no quitters or slackers on the junior high team as each girl gave 110% at all times. The girls played real tough defense and played well as a team. The tough work by the girls was not enough to win more games.

The Plainview baseball team finished the season 0-8 even after improving a great deal from last year. Improvement came after many hours of hard work on the basics of baseball. This improvement showed up in the first four games as the Hawks stayed within one point of Granada in the opening game of the season. The Hawks then went 12 innings against McClave before losing 5-2. A young Plainview track team had a good season this year. There was only one senior in track, Scott Wilson. The boys track team consisted of ten boys. The girls team consisted of five girls. Throughout the season both teams attended four track meets - Holly, Burlington invitational, League at Burlington, and District at La Junta. Tony Steele, however, was the only person to go on to the Colorado State Track Meet in Denver. Tony went to State in the mile after a great season. Both the girls and the boys had 400 meter relay teams. The boys team placed second at two track meets. Overall the track teams had a great season.

"Mountain Gal," is about the Lindsay family. They live in the Ozarks, have a farm, an old truck, and a hired man. Compared to most of the hillbillies, they're "rich!" Ma Lindsay has gone to school about two years and considers herself educated. She thinks so highly of herself she has become a tyrant, forcing everybody to live as she wishes. Her special target is Deedee, an orphan girl who has come to work on the Lindsay farm.

When Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, tourists from the North, have an accident near the Lindsay farm, Pa Lindsay tries to help them get their car started. The Gordons come to the Lindsay farm for dinner and become interested in Deedee. She tells them of her dreams of an education. Meanwhile, Oby, the hired man, is having an awful time proposing to Sophie, the hired girl on the next farm. Whenever he gets her alone, someone interrupts them. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon decide to try to convince the Lindsays to let them take Deedee home with them. Ma Lindsay has no affection for Deedee. Her only concern is for her own daughter, Catalpa.

The Lindsays give their consent and Deedee happily goes off with the Gordons, and to school and comes through with flying colors.

CLASS OF 1996

Kindergarten Graduation was a very important occasion for the six graduates of the class. Each of them was dressed in their finest clothes for what was perhaps the most important moment in their life so far. They each recited a poem and then sang "Skip to my Lou" for the good-sized audience. Now it was time to receive the diplomas. Dr. Pimentel and Mrs. Reinert, who had helped the class prepare for this event, were now ready to present the class. Those two and all of the parents in the audience beamed with pride as the group was officially promoted into the first grade.
