New Programs Implemented

In 1990 many new programs were implemented at Plainview. The youngsters were offered pre-school. Keyboarding was provided to 4th - 6th grades. The band incorporated new contemporary popular instruments. Carts made the computers more mobile. The science program took a hands-on lab approach. The faculty and staff of Plainview had a great influence on the students. The teachers helped the students to learn, while the staff kept the school running smoothly. Plainview students have to admit they have one of the best faculty and staff today.

Freshmen

The 1989 Homecoming week was a smashing success. The highlight of the week was when freshman Roy Koch and junior Jennifer Rorex were chosen as Homecoming Royalty. The Hawks hosted the Kit Carson Wildcats for both volleyball and football. After the football game, the dance with the theme, "Shower Me With Your Love," was enjoyed by all. Each day there was a different spirit theme. As a part of initiation week the freshmen were dressing up, too. The week included a bonfire and a powderpuff volleyball tournament. Final activities peaked when the seniors held "Kangaroo Court" for the freshmen.

Student Council Chooses Teacher Of The Year

Student Council planned the Homecoming activities, organized class projects, and had two other dances. They also had a tough job of helping with the teacher of the year process. The officers and members were all hard working and did a fine job.

Scholastic Team Downs Pritchett

The scholastic team competed in a total of nine meets. Members of the A-team were Ryan Murdock, Lynn Scherler, Heather Kelley, and Brandon Harvey. The alternates were Jenny Rorex and Curtis Weber. Toward the end of the season, Roy Koch and Danny Specht joined the team so that Plainview would have a B-team. The A-team placed fifth at Cheraw and tied for fourth at Plainview's meet.

Lady Hawks Prepare For The 90's

The Hawks downed Lamar Christian. Plainview won one out of three sets in several matches. The volleyball team had five freshmen, one sophomore and two juniors; the team was very young. 1989 was a year of experience for the Hawks.

Standing: Tricia Lening, Tracy Parker, Heather Kelley, Jenny Rorex, Coach Rathbun Seated: Kristina Specht, Tammy Selby, Melanie Richardson

"That's No Lady . . ."

The seniors presented the play, "That's No Lady, That Was a Private Eye." Phyllis Harlowe is her name, and private investigation is her game. Her lip gloss is bullet-proof. She has a landlord who wants the rent, a secretary/assistant who's deeply involved in the soaps, and a frightened male client who wants protection. She also has a lounge singer boyfriend who wants her to quit "this crummy racket" and marry him, but she's cool to the idea. And there's more — a couple of hired thugs (dangerous), a chatty manicurist with an active libido, and a grumpy police chief who's putting the heat on Ms. Harlowe. Then, of course, there's Phyl's nemesis, the homicidal Preppy, Darlene Bourgeois. In the end, justice triumphs and love conquers.

Lopez And Fuqua-Mr. And Miss PHS

Frank Lopez and Angela Fuqua were recognized as Mr. and Miss PHS for 1990. Both individuals compete in athletics and strive to do their best in school. The elementary teacher of the year was Miss Wendy Beesley. Miss Beesley is very dedicated and encourages learning through her creative methods of teaching. Mr. Keith Harvey was chosen as the secondary teacher of the Year. Mr. Harvey can be found putting in long hours preparing for his science classes. He also serves as sophomore class sponsor and assistant coach in girls high school basketball.

WILL

I, Angela Fuqua, will my ability to strike up a conversation with a total stranger to Melanie Richardson, my ability to understand Shakespeare to Tom Powers, my ability to avoid being grounded from using the car for a month to Roy Koch, my ability to change my hair style every two months to Tammy Selby, and my shortness to Mrs. Palmer.

I, Frank Lopez, will my ability to retake a semester of junior English to Jennifer Rorex, my ability to handle nicotine to Brandon Harvey, my ability to BS my way through anything to Robbie Parker, my love of literature to Curtis Weber, my ability to get along with Mrs. Tuttle to Jay Wilson, my year-round tan to Mrs. Palmer, and my svelte body to Mr. Parker.

I, Ruth Fees, will my music appreciation skills to Mr. Oppliger, my scorekeeper's job to Jo Harris and Cheri Hopkins, my height to Mrs. Heeren, my chest size to Mrs. Palmer, and my ability to put up with Bob Parker's practical jokes to Jan Carney.

Always Busy Doing Something

This year's junior class was always busy doing something. From decorating the gym for the Junior-Senior Prom to getting ready for their play, the juniors were on the ball. They hosted the dinner for the Plainview Knowledge Meet and in early May they had a trash haul. They had their fun moments (like playing with the glitter on the gym floor from Prom or throwing snowflake triangles) and also the bad ones (cleaning the glitter off the floor and the trash haul). This will be a year that the juniors will not forget and hopefully, will stay with them forever.
